He was the most alive man I ever knew. Jeff passed doing something he loved...No one ever has that chance when they are called to Heaven. His accident will create ripples that will go on forever affecting all who loved him. He is still with you Roseanne. He just went to race on Heavens track . Jeff will still protect you. Listen for him in the roar of an engine or the wind in the trees and the sound of the rivers running with fish. He is also in the noise of the Foundry. There is a space that can never be filled in your life by any other man. You will never be the same but you will always be Roseanne, the best person I ever knew in my life. Georgine

I worked with Jeff for many years at the foundry. He always seem to have a smile on his face if not a grin, like a little kid. He was one of those guys that just made going to work better. He will truly be missed by many.....

I just knew Jeff from the foundry, but I sure appreciated his friendship, even just at the foundry.
