Red sure will be missed,IT seems like i knew him for a long time here at king, He was a very nice and frindely person to know, He allways had a smaly on him, and helping anyone out, I use to work with him with the tuggers in the tunnel, he was anser the phones, but as i would allways say that he is with us now and doing things that he likes to do, in watch reminds me of this song,[blowing in the wind] this is hard for me to put things in words that i would like to say, but he was a great guy<http://storage.lifetributes.com/Candles/new/candle-5.png>
