“ Jack & I spent every summer together when growing up. We both fell in the mud. Well we decided to go back to Paps and change before anyone saw us. We snuck back and the doors were locked so we decided to go in the coal chute. Yes we thought we got away with it until we track the coal dust thru the house. I remember when He bought a old Indian Motorcycle and hid from Pauline. We when for a ride together about all of 50 feet when we wrecked. I could tell stories all day like this We were always in trouble.
